Dublin, Sept. 19. 1851.

Dear Mrs Chapman

As some friends of mine are going to London and one of them has undertaken to bring a parcel from them to me, I write to say that if you would kindly direct Mr Foley to send the Portrait to my friend in London, when I send the address to him, I will write to him as soon as I ~~shall~~ know the proper place to have it sent to. I would also be glad to know Mr Foley's present address as I want to ask him a question respecting the results of his labours.

I am now in the midst of business trying to reconcile myself to such a change from the "otium cum dignitate" of the last two months. I hope the books arrived safely that I sent to Bristol since I arrived at home. With best regards & good wishes to you all

Yours ever truly Richd D Webb

Of course you heard of the death of Genl Thompson in Surrey - in consequence of which the visit of his Father to Dublin was postponed and our Anti Slavery meeting for which we had made considerable preparations deferred sine die.
